p53 and pRB complexes with Rb-binding protein 4 and the Sp1-like factor ZBP-89. Rb-binding protein 4 (RBP4) is a 934-amino acid protein that was originally isolated as a binding partner of the retinoblastoma gene product. We found that RBP4 efficiently blocked the transactivation activity of E2F-1 in GST-Rb fusion proteins and E2F-1-dependent transcriptional activity in a reporter gene assay. RBP4 bound to E2F-1 via the Rb-binding domain and prevented the interaction of the E2F-1 C-terminal domain with the Rb pocket in GST-Rb fusion proteins. In the presence of Rb, RBP4 co-precipitated with Rb/E2F-1 complexes. The Rb pocket of Rb bound RBP4 and blocked its interaction with E2F-1. Moreover, RBP4 enhanced the transactivation activity of Rb in yeast. Transactivation of ZBP-89, a Sp1-like factor, also was reduced by RBP4. Both RBP4 and Sp1 bound to ZBP-89 through their zinc-finger-like domains. Our results suggest that RBP4 and Sp1 compete for the same binding site on ZBP-89 and may regulate each other in vitro and in vivo.
