The Game Overload is a PC-Gameserver, compatible with the Steam platform, which offers you the possibility to play in a large multiplayer map which can reach a size of up to 16 square kilometres. The map features multiple floors, many NPCs and many, many portals. It is available for free and has not been explicitly updated since 2011. The portal system allows players to teleport from one location to another. The player portal is a special object that allows the player to teleport from one location to another. Currently the Game Overload offers 20 maps. Each map has its own difficulty setting, there are 4 types of starting settings (Lethal, Normal, Easy and Very Easy), and each map also has a custom difficulty setting in addition. The custom difficulty setting allows you to set the starting settings. These Custom settings can be set manually. The custom difficulty settings can be accessed using the following buttons: - Difficulty Up: moves the starting settings from easy up to easy. - Difficulty Down: moves the starting settings from hard down to easy. - Manual: goes into the menu, where the player can manually set the starting settings. - Manual Easy: goes into the menu, where the player can manually set the starting settings. The custom difficulty settings also allow you to set the starting settings manually. Once the difficulty has been changed, the starting settings are reset again. The starting settings can only be set within the custom settings menu. The game maps are: - The Borgia: an industrial setting. - Astro: a futuristic setting. - Castle: an medieval setting with a moat. - Chaos: a space-setting that has already been removed from the game. - La Rejouissance: an industrial setting. - Rambaldi: a futuristic setting. - The Revival: a medieval setting with a large dungeon. - Zardo: a space setting. The custom difficulty settings can be set in the game's options before starting the game. These settings can be changed again at any point in the game. The Game Overload offers 4 different game modes. The modes can be accessed using the following buttons: - Ground: the standard mode. - Boss battle: the up-close and personal mode. - Ladder: to prevent players from dying if they are connected to the game, and to prevent the rank of players from affecting the players. This is a Beta version we are looking to iterate and grow the game. • PLEASE NOTE! - We DO NOT plan on adding support for OpenGL, as currently the game engine doesn't support it. We will prioritize improving performance and adding the full visual features we want to make the game stand out. • Play As A Crew: You are an Atomic Overlord or a Crew Chief, leading or training up a ship's crew. You'll be able to control all of the ship's systems and commands. • Ships: Each player is assigned a Ship in the game. The ship's crew is controlled by your hand as you choose your tactics and decisions. • Space: Space is dangerous, but it's also your domain. Pick your battles where you can be the most effective, and pack a hyperspace pistol (if you're feeling lucky) into a battle. • Crew: Each crew member controls a function of the ship, from weapons and defenses to engines and control. You're not just a ship commander, you're a captain for a crew of other crew members. • Progression: Everything in your ship becomes better as you use it. You can upgrade and boost up your ship to become the "Overlord" of your Solar Arena. • Mining: Mining is a critical function in any spacefaring culture. You can harvest resources to score points and complete quests. • Building: Expand your arsenal by building bases and ship decorations on planets. • Crew Management: Controlling your ship and its crew is complex. All of your crew is currently modeled as little animated items within the "Crew" tabs on the main menu. • Planets: A planet is a home for your crew, and the resources you find there are yours to explore and develop. Every mission is an extra step toward your greater goals. • Win Conditions: Get the most points! Each of your planets has a particular bonus. You can also score cool crew styles, items, and more through the game's progression. • Spacefarers: You'll start out as an "Atomic Overlord". You'll either get involved in a political conflict between opposing forces, or you'll take to the stars on your own. • Crew vs Crew: You can team up with up to 4 friends to get even more points and amazing crew in-game. Check out the Store for crew customization items and more! • PvP: In
