Delhi based actor Sidharth Malhotras excellent performance in Aiyaary has ensured the international buzz for the film. This could surely benefit the foreign collections of the film even though it opened to mixed reviews. Directed by Neeraj Pandey, Aiyaary is about an intelligence agency sifting through the skeletons of a suspected spy and the closer they dig down the deeper lies fall in their wake. The film marks the third collaboration between Sidharth Malhotra and Neeraj Pandey after Beta and this time around the film has witnessed a muted response at the box office. Moving ahead to the production costs of Aiyaary, the budget for the film is reported to be on an average of Rs 50 crore, whereas the film has earned a little more than Rs 74 crore at the domestic box office. The most important expense is for the overseas rights since it is a huge overseas market for the filmmakers, where the film has taken a mammoth opening on almost all the screens. Moreover, the film has witnessed a moderate growth in its domestic release in the past couple of weeks. Moving ahead to the profit making of the film, the film collected around Rs 25 crore from the domestic box office and released on a low opening on all the screens. The makers should have a good gross collection in their pocket since Aiyaary cost about Rs 35 crore to make. One of the key reasons behind the poor collections is because of the odd release pattern the movie was given. Most of the commercially speaking, the film released on a long weekend and now that the weekend is done, the film will see a good growth on its domestic collections.
