POPTEE Description: The POPTEE project was started in September 2000 at the Computer Language and Computer Systems Department, Faculty of Informatics at the University of Plzen. During the first phase of the project, a prototype of the poptview application was developed. In the second phase, the main software engine of the POPTEE system was implemented, and the calculation engine for the evaluation of parallel texts was implemented. The poptview application is used for managing and browsing of bilingual dictionaries and databases of parallel texts. It displays tabular or graphical representation of parallel texts, including the selected word of each source sentence. It can evaluate the quality of the parallel text. The evaluation results are displayed in graphical and tabular form. The main software engine has been implemented as a component of a newly designed database management system POPTEE, which can handle the massive amount of data and operations. POPTEE aims at being a suitable system for a wide range of applications, not only translation. POPTEE is available for free use. The POPTEE project has been implemented by a team of four researchers and students from the Department of Computer Science and Engineering, University of Plzen.
